
10 Celebrity Racecar Drivers Who've Earned Respect

For many celebrities, a career is irresistible. Adrenaline and the desire to get away make it one of the most exciting sports in the world. Many agents and athletes, known affectionately need fast cars, trying with their hands one of the fans of the competition of many celebrities, but the level of amateur increased only a few people, and made a name in sports. It takes time, money and talent to succeed in the race. Many famous people have time and money, but their minority talents are serious. Race cars are a very competitive and organic world and the famous name should strive to accept it. The famous driver is not famous on the track, but the team is only part of the team and the other drivers are ready to win. This close approach and relative privacy, which makes it attractive to spores, allows many to avoid all external stress. However, they came to the race, there were 10 famous riders, their passion won them to see their respect for other tribes.

1. Rowan Atkinson

The British comedian, famous for Mr. Ben, is also a serious car driver. Atkinson, a famous passenger, writes about the famous McLaren F1 accident and a series of British car magazines. He led the Renault Rover 5 in the 1980s in turbo racing and continued his career in 2010 at Aston Martin in Silverstone. In 2014, Goodwood entered a fierce battle Ford Falcon Racing Sprint. Fortunately, he left without suffering.

2. Paul Walker

The late Paul Walker had a certain passion for luxury cars, but it was also a talented circuit. Redline racing star series and the fast angry sequences, modified BMW M3 compete today, which is still in the race, and was co-owner of the site, which is constantly developing speed and racing team.

3. Walter Cronkite

Before being confirmed as the most reliable American journalist, Walter Cronkite was an emotional candidate. In 1959, Cronkite took third place in the Volvo PV444 endurance race at Lyme Park in Connecticut. In the same year, Lencia Abia Zagato was packed at 12 in Sebring, and the team's 40 races were usually completed.

4. Bruce Jenner

Need help with the assignment?

Our professionals are ready to assist with any writing!

GET HELP

Bruce Jenner succeeded as a driver after the Olympic Games before becoming a source of food for magazines (before returning to Kaitlin and leaving). He ran 12 hours, 24 hours, and Dayton Sebring in 1980, winning Sebring's fifth-grade 12 hours behind the wheel in 1986 Roush-Ford. In 2013, Lamborghini returned briefly to participate in the Super Trofeo series.

5. Jane Hackman

Oscar winner John Hackman discovered an error that caused about 60 percent of the emotion in the theater of oppression when he prevailed in the race against the French Connection movie. In the late 1970s he became famous as one of the best gentlemen in Hollywood. The racing race, the legendary rider Dan Gorny spent 24 hours in 1983 in Dayton.

6. James Garner

In 1966, when he took the movie "Grand Prix", racing legend Graham Hill told James Garner that he was a good driver for a professional career. He took the approval of Garner Hill seriously and became one of the most experienced actors of his time. The document "Race" immortalized the Americans who founded the Oldsmobile International Race Team in 1969. The Baja 1000 off-road race was heavily modified to administer the 442.

7. James Dean

Although James Dean was relatively new in the race, he was a talented contender and was born alone with the original model of the show. After MG and Porsche Speedster, Dean was eliminated from the Warner Bros. race. Before the movie, he embraces "Giant". After filming I saw the race and bought a Porsche 550 Spyder with career training. Unfortunately, he will never compete: Dean was killed on September 30, 1955 during the Porsche race before his first race in Salinas, California.

8. Patrick Dempsey

Some modern players, like Patrick Dempsey, have been so successful. The star, known for the role of Derek Sheppard in Gray's Anatomy, was a serious contender for many years. The owner of the Dempsey Racing team, competed in the race with the preparation of the Porsche 911 race and Druze among other races, competed in the 24 Daytona Rolex 24 hours for the IndyCar Vision racing series. In 2011, Rolex finished third in Dayton.

Need help with the assignment?

Our professionals are ready to assist with any writing!

GET HELP

9. Steve McQueen

No other representative took the cult of vehicles like Steve McQueen: "I do not know if I'm an actor involved in racing or riding." 1950 11 Porsche Speedster, MGE, Formula Cooper of the Porsche 908 motorcycle race and several was a car on the road one of the most beautiful cars in the 1960s, McQueen, Lotus.

10. Paul Newman

Paul Newman is one of Neslin's most important players and has become the most successful driver in history. Cinema in 1969, Newman "victory" in the race and soon came to eat in the race for a second in 1972, the sport and the year in professional competition in 1979, Lehman had at 24 hours and will be given with 1979 and he won four championships for the 1986 SCCA. In 2006, he was the oldest driver to launch the Rolex 24 at the age of 81. Newman's passion for racing compared his acting skills and was a myth in both.

The attraction of racing cars for so many celebrities is so strong that you cannot resist it. One thing to look at is the department, but that is another success. These ten celebrities spurred for a variety of reasons, proving that the race is not just a hobby, but a passion.

Need help with the assignment?

Our professionals are ready to assist with any writing!

GET HELP