
Dealing with Students who Fail in Education and Counselling Them

It is common to face failure along with growth. In fact, failure is considered as the stepping stone to success. People usually end up reaching this wrong conclusion that failure is something which only students in schools or colleges face. But the fact is that there is failure in life also and that is not based on the tests or exams like what they write in the schools. In fact, this thought of failure only happens in school can also be considered as the persons failure in his thoughts.

There are many reasons why students fail in their examinations or tests. Such failures usually lead the students dropping out from colleges and giving up on their educational life. If the reasons for why the student has failed is not analysed and taken care of then this can gradually end up having high illiteracy rates.

Reasons why students fail in education

A few reasons why students fail in their education are:

- One of the basic reasons why students fail in their education should be considered as their inability to judge things fast and cope up with their studies. In a classroom full of students there are students with different abilities and talents. Few may catch up things easily whereas for the rest few they may require time understand what is happening and how to get through them. The teacher must be aware of the students' abilities and must be able to guide them on the exact track. If the student finds it difficult in coping up on time they might ultimately end up giving up and this can lead them in dropping out. But, with good support and guide from teachers, parents and others around the student can definitely succeed in their goal. Teachers who usually go for education degree will know how to bring students on track. This is why the demand for online education degrees is increasing.
- Another reason can be due the lack of confidence they possess. Students with lack of confidence can never succeed in their lives. To reach your goals or reach any high position in life you must be confident. Students must be supported and given confidence throughout their difficult times. Students who have the tendency to quite soon should always have someone to encourage them. Parents can be the best people to encourage a kid and then comes the teachers. The first thing what they have to do is to teach the student that they cannot achieve anything in a blink of an eye. They'll need their own time to understand things and solve them especially when they are learning new skills. Let them make sure that they start with little steps rather than giving a direct entry to complex methods. And let them also make sure that they are on time with their work.

- Students having the fear to even start up with the work are also very common and this one of the major reasons why students fail. Even before they start up with the task they are scared of starting it or how to continue it. This ultimately leads them to give up even before they start their work. They unnecessarily think of how they can finish their work on time or what will happen if they do some mistake. All these thoughts of fear can result in not only being failures in exams or given tasks but also their life. Students who are intelligent and are well in studies, find difficulty in passing their examination due to their unnecessary fear and lack of confidence.

Why students require counselling?

Students require counselling to be on the right track. All the reasons mentioned above for a student to fail in their education can be over looked only through counselling. Students can open up and speak out their issues without any fear. This can give them some relief from the problems they go through. They can also find solutions for the problems they go through.

Counselling will students know where exactly they have gone wrong and this can help them rectify their mistakes. Continuous counselling in schools and colleges helps the student stay confident and fight for their goal without giving up. Students can build their confidence level and can keep away their fear by undergoing continuous sessions of counselling.

Counselling will be more effective if done by the parents or the teacher. As students are more comfortable around people they know well. There are many people who do study psychology and then start their career as teachers. For others who have passion to do psychology they look for the best online counselling colleges to get a degree in counselling.

Students require motivation to come up in life. Motivation can help students build courage so that they can take initiative in taking up responsibilities so that they can develop their leadership qualities. Counsellors motivate students and help them build courage.
