The name Keto comes from the word Ketogenesis which is a biochemical process by which our body produces substances collectively known as Ketone bodies which makes the body to take energy by burning the fats present in it. There are three type of Ketone bodies produced, acetone, acetoacetate and beta hydroxybutyrate. Our body produces this substance naturally when glucose is not present. Normally, glucose is the primary source of energy for the body which helps to power the brain and other organ to function properly but in some cases when there is no glucose present the body undergo Ketogenesis to provide energy for our daily work. The fats present in our body can produce thrice the amount of carbs to power our whole body. Naturally when you take the pills not only you make your body to make fats as your primary source of energy but it also enhance the functioning capability of your brain.
