

---

Overview Of Italy: Geography, History, Development Etc.

Italy is a country of south-central Europe, occupying a peninsula that juts deep into the Mediterranean Sea. Its longitude is 11. 255814 and latitude is 43. 769562. Italy has been described as one of the most beautiful places in the world and it also often described as a country shaped like a boot. Alps is one of the famous tourist places in Italy, which was the most rugged mountain among the world. Italy's highest points is Monte Bianco, which meaning "white mountain". It is 4808 meters above sea level.

Tuscany was the best-known region in Italy, it located at the south of the cisalpine region. Italy's towns and cities have a history of self-sufficiency, independence, and mutual mistrust due to the Italy's political geography has been conditioned by its rugged landscape and poor transport system. For these reasons, visitors today remark on how unlike one town is from the next, on the marked differences in cuisine and dialect, and on the many subtle divergences that make Italy seem less a single nation than a collection of culturally related points in an uncommonly pleasing setting. Italian history begins with the Etruscans, an ancient civilization that rose between the Arno and Tiber rivers. The Etruscans were supplanted in the 3rd century BCE by the Romans, who soon became the chief power in the Mediterranean world and whose empire stretched from India to Scotland by the 2nd century CE. That empire was rarely secure, not only because of the unwillingness of conquered peoples to stay conquered but also because of power struggles between competing Roman political factions, military leaders, families, ethnic groups, and religions.

The Roman Empire fell in the 5th century CE after a succession of barbarian invasions through which Huns, Lombards, Ostrogoths, and Franks—mostly previous subjects of Rome—seized portions of Italy. Rule devolved to the level of the city-state, although the Normans succeeded in establishing a modest empire in southern Italy and Sicily in the 11th century. Many of those city-states flourished during the Renaissance era, a time marked by significant intellectual, artistic, and technological advances but also by savage warfare between states loyal to the pope and those loyal to the Holy Roman Empire. A part from that the name of the Italy's flag is called Tricolore. This flag is adopted on 1946 June 18 and it also clearly inspired by the French Model of 1790. The flag is form by three vertical columns with equally-size and three different colors which is green, white and red. Those colours has own representative meaning such as Green mean hope, white mean faith and red mean charity. The population of Italy is 59,290,969 and the density of the country is 202 people per km. Italian is the official language of Italy. 93% of Italian was native Italian speakers. Besides the official language, Italy also has its own regional dialect such as Friulian and the other language like Ladin, Slovene, German, France also is popular language in Italy. Moreover, most of the Italian like to enjoy good things and luxury

---

Need help with the assignment?

Our professionals are ready to assist with any writing!

GET HELP

---

things in daily life.

The Italian also used to judge on clothes, shoes, accessories and the way you carry yourself. This is because, the way you dress can indicate your social status, your family's background and your education level. For this reason, Italian always try to manufactured some of very luxury things like Gucci, Ferrari, MV Augusta, Maserati and etc. to fulfill their social needs. The primary religion in Italy is Roman Catholic. There are more Catholic Churches per capita in Italy than in any other country. Although, church attendance is relatively low, the influence of the church is still high. Then, children are named for a particular saint and celebrate their saint's day as if it were their own birthday. They also believed that each trade and profession have a patron saint. The belief causing them always respect and defer to those who are older, people achieved a level of business success and those people who come from well-connected families.

gradesfixer.com

---

Need help with the assignment?

Our professionals are ready to assist with any writing!

GET HELP